Customer Reviews

In case you missed the title of my review, I'm a second time home owner who's 32. And... I was stupid enough the first go round with my choice of purchase and in not getting a home inspection. The result of those poor choices resulted in the night of my mortgage signing I was ripping down ceiling to wall curtains only to find out the house had been flooded by rain and not even the previous owners knew of it because the curtains hid the damage. I'd walked the property multiple times while it was occupied and thought I could forego that oh-so-important inspection. Well, learn from me... DON'T DO IT! :) What I purchased was a 5th floor condo in a well established building. In the course of my ten year ownership the fees have increased almost yearly to nearly $100 higher than the original fee upon purchase. We also were assessed several hundred dollars by the association to make necessary repairs to the building on top of those monthly maintenance fees. My recommendation: I don't care what condo you think of buying just don't do it! A very stupid choice all the way around. You can't build or add onto it when your family grows, your unable to avoid paying increased fees or assessments. It's almost worse than apartment living! Now to the book... It's really great. In case they don't let you look inside to see the contents page i'll break down the 15 chapters for you. 1- What's So Great About Buying A House? Investment Value, Tax Breaks, Rent vs Buy 2- What Do You Want? Figuring Out Your Needs. Neighborhoods, Lifestyle, Knowing the different types of houses, Common Interest Properties, Manufactured & Modular Homes, Dream List 3- Does This Mean I Have To Balance My Checkbook? Figuring Out What You Can Afford.

I have been saving money for a down payment for the last year to buy a new home. I discovered this book at just the right time in my life. There is tons of information on the net about the topic, but this book brings in all together from a trustworthy source. After going through this book it is like having a best friend who is an expert in real estate. This book covers all the bases. -How to figure out all your needs to put together a checklist on where to buy. -All the upfront costs, taxes debt/income ratio for lenders, etc. -Thinking outside the box like speaking to neighbors before you buy and checking out the environment/community from the aspect as if you lived there already. (which is a great idea often overlooked) -Selecting the real estate team: agent, banker, lawyer, inspector, etc. -A really in depth break down of your soon to be mortgage. -Outside sources of funding. -Finding the perfect property (tips, tricks, things to look out for) -Alternative options like Fixer Uppers/Foreclosures -Step by step break down of the offer and negotiation. -Closing tips (title insurance, removing contingencies, what to say on the deed, etc)-Professional Property Inspectors-Homeowners Insurance and Warranties-Sealing the deal (all the final closing documents and tips at the finish line)-Tips after your claim your new home on how to settle in both on the financial and community front.-There is also a downloadable homebuyer's toolkit on the publisher's website.I know that I plan on keeping this book close for the next year for personal reference. If you are new to this experience and overwhelmed you literally can use this book as a guide to make it happen.
