My daily unwelcome anti-Catholic trolls will immediately leap all over this review, but in the light of the courageous witness of the Reverend Father Jean-Bertrand Aristide facing down countless gun barrels in the Sanctuary of Salesian Churches, I must not flinch from providing testimony and witness for this excellent spiritual treatise of what it means to be in truth and integrity a Roman Catholic Priest. No words can sum up this brilliant spiritual treatise and witness of our Faith under violent persecution by imperialist powers, the same which martyred the Blessed Monsenor Oscar Romero. The documentation of repression is unquestionable and deeply, terribly moving, and must be read by every Roman Catholic to understand what it truly means to be Roman Catholic under actual, physical, lethal repression, to learn our best and only response in resistance through nonviolence, solidarity peace and prayer most deeply in the mysteries of our Faith. By this martyrdom and inexorable repression we see our Faith. Read as well the Blessed Monsenor Romero, and Father Ellacuria and Companions. Read Jean Donovan and Sister Ita Ford. But above all read here (or in the original French/Creole) the Reverend Father Jean-Bertrand Aristide.
